WILL DIG UP THE BODY OF JESSE JAMES

Most Notorious Bandit of the Age.

WILL BE REBURIED SUNDAY

FOR 21 YEARS THE REMAINS RESTED IN THE OLD DOORYARD.

Sketch of the Man Who Defied a Government That Had Put a Big Price on His Head and Who Was Finally Shot in the Back by "Bob" Ford.

On Sunday next the body of Jesse James will be removed from the dooryard of his old home, where it has rested for 21 years, to be buried in lot of the James and Samuel Family Cemetery.

Jesse's mother, his widow, his son and his brother, Frank James, will be present at the re-interment. The event will have a very large popular interest—not because of its importance, of course, but because it will revive a large number of reminiscences as thrilling in character as ever framed a novel.

A NOTORIOUS BANDIT.

Jesse James, as all the world now knows, was first a guerrilla and then a bandit. He was the most notorious of the many men who won notoriety under Quantrill, and had the personal characteristics which gave Claude Duval such an attraction for the youthful mind.

He was at the head of a band that invented train robbing, and so successful were that band in their leviots on trains and banks during a period of twenty-seven years, that they broke not only all authenticated records as to achievements, but absolutely defied the best detective organizations during that entire period. They were not only free from arrest, but no detectives ever saw them and lived to tell of it. This was for years a puzzle to Jesse's head of $2000, and all the sleuths of two continents devoted time and energy to the obtainment of it.

THE GANG RIDDLED.

Finally, the band, through over-confidence, riddled of long success, was pretty badly riddled by shot and bullets at Northfield, Minn., and some of its strongest members remained.

Of the three Younger boys, who were in the raid, one was shot to death and the other two spent the last twenty-odd years in the Minnesota penitentiary, whence they recently emerged as ticket-of-leave men.

After that raid there was less audacity in the gang.

The great reward was a terrible temptation and inducement to treachery, and there were many new young recruits in the band. Among these came Bob Ford and Charles Ford, who came from the same part of Missouri as Jesse. They were in his party.

He removed from Nashville, Tenn., where he had been living as a respectable citizen and stock breeder, to St. Joseph, Mo., taking the Ford boys with him.

There Jesse and his wife and child lived in perfect quiet, until one day in 1882 the party was surprised and captured, and accused to Jesse's whereabouts, and that some treacherous friend of Jesse's would soon get the reward.

SHOT DEAD FROM BEHIND.

Jesse read this announcement at breakfast, and the Ford boys sat beside him as he read it aloud. They knew the end was no surprise at hand, although he manifested no surprise.

He told them he wanted them to go some place with him that night. This they interpreted as meaning they were to be taken out for execution.

So, an hour later, when he stood on a chair, dusting a picture on the wall with a feather duster, Bob Ford shot him through the back of the head, killing him instantly.

WARMER WEATHER—NOT HOT

Dr. Hyatt's Horoscope Calls for Occasional Showers and Enough Clouds to Prevent Sunburn.

Dr. Hyatt's prediction for the next 24 hours should please all. He says the temperature will rise moderately, but there is no real hot summer heat in prospect. There may be occasional showers and more or less cloudy skies.

There is a low
barometer over the Northwest and the Southwest, causing the rising temperature.

The highs have gone far away to the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts.

The early morning thermometer was registered the same as on Monday, 64 degrees.

SCHOOL'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

Celebration of St. Vincent de Paul's Parish at Lemp's Park Wednesday of This Week.

The schools of St. Vincent de Paul's parish will celebrate their golden jubilee at Lemp's Park, Wednesday, June 25. The jubilee will last through the day and evening.

Over 10,000 persons have been graduated from the schools of this parish.

In 1802 a number of men forming the society of the Christian Brothers settled and opened a school at Seventh and Corre
streets, now the site of the Cupples block.
A branch school was located at Ninth and Party streets. From the Corre street house they moved to the present site of the college on the hill above the city. In 1852 the school was destroyed. A new building was erected.

The Rev. Stephen P. Huber, the present pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, has been connected with the schools for 15 years.

ATTENDING SURGEONS SAY THE KING IS DOING WELL; ALL THE CORONATION CEREMONIES INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

Bulletin Issued at 6 p. m.
States That the Patient Was Much Relieved by the Operation.

THE DISEASE IS REALLY APPENDICITIS

Pathetic Picture of the Enfeebled Monarch

respondent Who Witnessed His Arrival From Windsor.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, June 24.—The following bulletin was posted at Buckingham palace at 6 o'clock this evening (1 p. m. St. Louis time): "His majesty continues to make satisfactory progress and has been much relieved by the operation.

"LISTER,
"TREVES,
"SMITH,
"LAING,
"BARLOW."

The signatures are those of the famous surgeons in attendance on the King. The King asked for the Prince of Wales as soon as he recovered from the operation. The cabinet is holding a meeting this evening.

Stripped of medical phrases, the King is suffering from appendicitis and the operation was compulsory.

The King's condition up to the present is satisfactory but all depends on the next 15 hours. Of course, his age and mode of life are against him.

Since morning the old stories that he is suffering from cancer of the throat have been reviewed, but they are authoritatively denied.

As the day wore on the rumors increased in gravity until a report was circulated on the stock exchange that the King was actually dead.

The postponement of the coronation festivities applied to the naval review as well as to all other functions. Notice to this effect will be sent to the special ambassador by the foreign office tonight.

The ambassadors will probably depart within a day or two.

A probability discussed in official circles is a "service of intercession" at Westminster Abbey to pray for the King's recovery, unless the world should occur within 24 to 48 hours.

Conflicting Report Came From the Palace Where the King Lies

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The World's London correspondent cables:

4:30 p. m.—The latest official report is that the King is sinking fast, there is no hope and great anxiety prevails.

LONDON, June 24, 5:10 p. m.—Sir Francis Knollys informed a representative of the Associated Press at 4:30 p. m. that there had been practically no change since the operation.

"His majesty," he said, "continues to sleep well, and is progressing satisfactorily."

There is no question, however, that the King's condition is extremely critical.

LONDON, June 24.—At 5 p. m. (noon, St. Louis time), King Edward was resting well after the surgical operation.

Lord Salisbury has just announced in the House of Lords that the surgeons entertained a most satisfactory view in regard to the progress of the distinguished patient.

This, he said, was the most definite language that could be used at this time.

In the House of Commons the government leader, A. J. Balfour, announced that an operation had been performed on the King and that his majesty was progressing as well as possible.

Mr. Balfour said that while the King's condition was undoubtedly grave, he did not intend to increase the public alarm by adjourning the House.

Another high official said to press representatives that there was undoubtedly very much cause for anxiety. The King had successfully passed through the chloro-forming stage, but nobody could say definitely for the next 24 hours how matters would turn.

It is understood that the operation was performed by Sir Frederick Treves, who correctly diagnosed the complaint and is a specialist in abdominal operations.

The Prince of Wales has been at the palace all day long, and the Duke of Connaught, brother of the King, has been there most of the time today.

He said, was the most definite language that could be used at this time.

2:46 p. m.—The following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace:

"The operation has been successfully performed. A large abscess has been evacuated.

The King has borne the operation well and is in a satisfactory condition."

It is said the King fell asleep after the operation was performed.

At 3:30 p. m. the King was progressing very satisfactorily.

The coronation has been postponed indefinitely on account of the indisposition of King Edward.

Official Bulletin Issued by the King's Private Secretary

LONDON, June 24—Sir Francis Knollys, the King's private secretary, has issued the official medical announcement, as follows:

"The King is suffering from peritonitis.

"His condition Saturday was so satisfactory that it was hoped that with care his majesty would be able to go through the ceremony.

"On Monday evening a recrudescence became manifest, rendering a surgical operation necessary today."

"THOMAS BARLOW,

It is privately admitted that his majesty's condition is more serious than represented by the medical bulletin.

Lister is Sir Joseph Lister, sergeant surgeon-in-ordinary to King Edward, famous for the discovery of antiseptic treatment in surgery.

Thomas Smith is Sir Thomas Smith, surgeon-surgeon to the King and late vice-president of the Royal College of Surgeons.

Laking is Sir Francis Henry Laking, physician-in-ordinary and surgeon apothecary to the King.

Barlow is Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to his majesty's household and professor of clinical medicine and physician to the university college hospital.

Trevise is Sir Frederick Treves, surgeon-surgeon to the King and was surgeon-executive to the late Queen Victoria.

AN HOUR AHEAD WITH THE NEWS

The Post-Dispatch announced to St. Louis the fact that King Edward had been operated upon one hour before any other paper appeared upon the streets.

Postponement of the coronation ceremonies, after the world had come to London—definite postponement of a program intended to occupy five days—this was read by St. Louis in the Post-Dispatch, "THE ONLY AFTERNOON PAPER WITH THE ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY DISPATCHES," one hour before any other paper appeared.

THE SECOND EXTRA OF THE POST-DISPATCH, announcing the King's condition, was in the hands of newsboys at about the time the first of the other papers came out.

KING SHALL NEVER BE CROWNED

"King shall Edward be, but never shall he be crowned." Thus runs old prophecy made about the time of King Edward's birth.

"The King near the months of May or June of this year will be in serious danger of his life." The prophecy was made Jan. 26 last by Cheshire, a widely-known painter, at his Paris home. He predicted the death of King Edward.

Edward is the seventh beaum of a name that has proved unfortunate for each of the six Edward Kings of England. Edward I was unfortunate in his son and his successor; Edward II lived only a short while and died of disease; Edward III was murdered; Edward IV died while a boy; Edward V was compelled to wait until he was 10 before ascending the throne.

"KING EDWARD VII WILL BE CROWNED"

DR. A. C. BERNAYS.

St. Louis Physician Says He Will Recover—The Operation Is Not Necessarily Dangerous and the King Has One of the Best Surgeons in World.

"King Edward will recover and live for several years," is the opinion Dr. A. C. Bernays expressed to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday morning in regard to the surgical operation performed upon the King.

His opinion was based upon knowledge of the disease and the surgeon in charge of the operation. "His disease is chronic peritonitis, which is what is now called, but not so correctly, appendicitis.

"Appendicitis is a hybrid word, being half Latin and half Greek. Peritonitis is a better word and was much used in former times. The operation consisted in draining an abscess, and there should be no fatal results.

"Sir Frederick Treves, who was one of the surgeons in charge of the operation, is a personal friend of mine.

"He is the best operator now in London. When I was a student in the Royal College of Surgeons he was a fellow at the college, and already a contributor to surgical literature.

"The work upon 'Operating Surgery' is the best of its kind in any language.

Several local physicians placed much stress upon the use of the term peritonitis and stated that the employing of the word showed either ignorance or a desire to mislead the public.

Dr. Bernays is of the opinion that the word was used for no reason other than its being the one learned men would use. Dr. Bernays has no doubt but what the surgeons in charge of the operation, is

OPERATION HIS ONLY CHANCE.

Dr. A. V. L. Brownawell said: "If the English surgeons say that King Edward is suffering from peritonitis I should say that he has plain appendicitis. English surgeons make a distinction between the two, but they are not so far advanced in this matter.

"Peritonitis, as the British term it, is very rare in comparison to what we know as appendicitis.

"We have mislabeled them and made them, till at the present moment we are ashamed of the slavery of the past and too ignorant and too helpless to govern them as a dependency of our over-burdened colonial bureau in London."

Peritonitis is Inflammation

About the Vermiform Appendix.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Dr. Cyrus Edson explains the King's illness and the operation for appendicitis.

Peritonitis is inflammation, including the formation of an abscess of the tissues around the appendix. The name peritonitis is hard to distinguish at once from appendicitis. Usually an operation is necessary to remove the appendix, and the doctor on the surrounding tissue is needed.

"In the King's case there is probably an abscess at the head of the large intestine which has ruptured, and the operation today was an immediate necessity because the abscess had to be got at and the pus removed.

The news spread like wildfire.

The crowd of spectators of the accident suddenly stood still under the sudden shock and gazed at one another in silent dread of what might come next.

On Saturday morning the King was ill, according to the reports of the King's illness, and, though the circumstances, details and sources from which they came, were obscure, there was a disposition to doubt the stories, and when the positive categorical denial was officially issued they were dismissed as unfounded.

Hemorrhoids, apoplexy, and lumbo-angiitis were a few of the diagnoses made and in the clubs and drawing rooms, and those discussing them recalled the stories how the King, even quite recently, reiterated his belief that he would never be crowned.

On the Stock Exchange the effect of the startling news was immediate. Prices were down by consols, a fall of half a point.

POSTPONEMENT IS INDEFINITE.

His majesty under ordinary conditions was not looked upon as a good subject for operations, and though the King passed successfully through the ordeal, it is believed that four or five weeks must elapse before he will be able to undergo the arduous labors of the coronation ceremony. Therefore, no date can yet be definitely fixed for the coronation.

Official announcements of the King's serious illness were made to public bodies as speedily as possible, and the King's personal physician, Dr. A. J. Balfour, the acting lord chamberlain, Lord Churchill, personally delivered to the Mansion House the official documents of the King's illness, and at the morning's rehearsal of the coronation ceremony, the King's earnest hope that the coronation in the British Isles should be held at the earliest possible date.

BULLETINS POSTED.

At about 1 o'clock in the afternoon three copies of the signed medical bulletin were sent to the different news agencies, and those discussing them recalled the stories how the King, even quite recently, reiterated his belief that he would never be crowned.

PUBLIC NOTICE GIVEN.

During the afternoon the early marshal, the Duke of Norfolk, issued the following notice: "The early marshal has received the King's commands to express his majesty's deep sorrow that owing to his serious illness the coronation ceremony must be postponed. The celebration in London will be postponed until a more convenient time, but the King's earnest hope is that the coronations in the British Isles shall be held as soon as possible.

The King also expressed to the lord mayor his desire that his majesty's dinner in the poor of London be not postponed.

The King requested the congregation to join in the service of the coronation service and pray for the recovery of the King.

CHILDREN WHO SOUGHT IT FIVE YEARS.

After reading the early bulletins referring to the King's illness, Dr. A. J. Balfour had intense gratification saying that a successful operation had been performed on the King and that his majesty was recovering rapidly.

"The announcement," proceeded Mr. Balfour, "was a great load off our minds, and melancholy news this morning was to suggest that the House mark its sense of the disaster which has befallen the whole nation. But we have cause for hope, and I hope that the King's earnest hope that the coronations in the British Isles shall be held as soon as possible.

Large crowds quickly gathered around the Mansion House, where the official notice was read by the King's personal physician, Dr. A. C. Bernays, and the house received its ordinary business.

Large numbers of foreign representatives actually arrived, but the shortness of time was not noticed, and inquiries were made and soon the news of the serious state of health was circulated among the waiting thousands.

The Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, expressed his entire approval of the course taken by the King, and the house received its ordinary business.

ROYAL CARRIAGES were already drawn up in readiness to take the guests to the reception at the Palace, but the "Daily Mail" announced his majesty's illness, all the preparations for the day ceased.

TRAFFIC seemed momentarily paralyzed, and it was long before the full effect of the bulletin, which was received with relief, was apparent.

In the King's case there is probably an abscess at the head of the large intestine, but as the King is not a good subject for radical treatment in a case of this kind."

London Hears the News in Dread of the Result.

LONDON, June 24.—The sudden announcement of the postponement of the coronation, just on the eve of the ceremony, took the ultimate consternation everywhere.

The news spread like wildfire. The heads of the bands of occupiers of the streets suddenly stood still under the sudden shock and gazed at one another in silent dread of what might come next.

One of the most popular was discussing the reports of the King's illness, and though the circumstantial details and sources from which the stories came were distinctly there was a disposition to doubt the stories, and when the positive categorical denial was officially made they were dismissed entirely.

Hemorrhoids, apoplexy, and lumbago were a few of the King's maladies, and in the clubs and drawing rooms, and those discussing them recalled the stories the King, even quite recently, reiterated his belief that he would never be cured.

On the Stock Exchange the effect of the startling news was immediate. Prices were down by consols, with a fall of half a point.

POSTPONEMENT IS INDEFINITE. His majesty under ordinary conditions was not looked upon as a good subject for operations, and though the King passed successfully through the ordeal, it is believed that four or five weeks must elapse before he will be able to undergo the arduous labors of the coronation ceremony. Therefore, no date can be indicated for the coronation.

Official announcements of the King's serious illness were made to public bodies as speedily as possible. While the King of the House of Commons, and the acting lord chamberlain, Lord Churchill, personally delivered the news to the king's physician, the Right Rev. Arthur F. Ingram, at the request of Lord Esher, the deputy governor of Windsor Castle, made a state

"I have to make a very sad announcement. The King is suffering from an illness which has rendered him incapable of performing the coronation. Therefore, is postponed."

The bishop requested the congregation to join in the litany out of the coronation service and pray for the recovery of the King.

PUBLIC NOTICE GIVEN. During the afternoon the early morning, the Duke of Norfolk, issued the following notice: "The Earl Marshal has received the King's commands to express his majesty's deep sorrow that owing to his serious illness the coronation ceremony must be postponed. The celebration in London will be rescheduled to a like position, but it is the King's earnest hope that the coronation in the country shall be held as originally arranged."

The King also expressed to the lord mayor his desire that his majesty's dinner at the poor of London be not postponed, and that the royal court and the movements of the foreign guests. The first intimation was Whitehall, the speaker of the House of Commons, and the acting lord chamberlain, Sir Henry Balfour, expressed his entire approval of the King's wishes.

After reading the early bulletins referring to the King's illness, the Earl Marshal informed a representative of the Association of Engineers that the King had been evacuated and that the King's condition was satisfactory, was removed and posted at the Palace.

In the course of the early afternoon the King, from Buckingham Palace announced that the King had been no longer than a few hours, and had been evacuated and that the King's condition was satisfactory, was removed and posted at the Palace.

The preparations had all been made. There had been rumors of the King's illness, but they had been so persistently denied that they did not seriously hamper the plans.

All were there to do honor to the ruler who, in the agonies of disease was glad to change places with the least of them if health would come with the change.

The preparations had all been made. There had been rumors of the King's illness, but they had been so persistently denied that they did not seriously hamper the plans.

His apparent recovery revived the rush. The King was already enjoying the scene of hilarity.

The dinner of the King and Queen of the nation's representatives Monday night only seemed to brand as false the rumors that the King might not be able to stand the great strain of the coronation.

These losses are all present facts. The King should die, they would be swelled heavily.

Death never approached a potentate of earth under more dramatic and disastrous conditions than those under which Edward VII of England has been stricken down.

Millions had been spent in the arrangements.

The House of Commons was crowded to-day by members and others who were anxious to hear the expected statement of the government leader, Dr. A. Balfour, on the subject of the King's illness.

VAIN QUEST FOR LITTLE HEIRESS

St. Louis Women Cannot Find Brother's Child.

$10,000 POLICY ALSO GONE

WILLIAM CONNELLY DIED IN DENVER PUBLIC HOSPITAL.

Keeper of Lodging House Says He Had No Insurance Papers in Clothes, Which Were Searched After Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DENVER, Colo., June 24.—Was 5-year-old Minnie Connally kidnapped? And where is the $10,000 insurance policy about which the father, William Connally, wrote his sisters before his death at the County Hospital here on June 3 of miners' consumption?

These are questions which the sisters, the Misses Minnie C. and Annie L. Connally of St. Louis, have been trying to solve for two weeks, and who have finally come to Denver, after traveling the length of Colorado, to see if the police have to follow a clue which might lead to the discovery of the missing child and the kidnapper.

The story is typical of the interest it reads like a novel, with its happiness and sorrows, joys and hardships, touched here and there with colors of pathos and tragedy. It began two years ago in Hartford, Conn., when William Connally, a boy away from home after his father's death, sought to seek his fortune. The elder Connally was the head of a proud and aristocratic family.

The mother and two daughters, Minnie and Annie, who were in Denver, besides the son, survived. Twelve years elapsed, and many changes were wrought in the life of the boy, the son who after many trials and vicissitudes in the mining West and the Klondike, wrote to his family. The father, however, had died before he missed it. And in the years of seeking his health was undermined by hardships.

Bought Fortune in the Klondike.

Six years ago he married Miss Minnie Russell, a school teacher at Central City, where he lived and where she had gone for a time to teach. They worked hard until the Klondike excitement swept over the country. Connally was wedded with the money he had earned.

He left his wife and child in Central City.

The wife died the year after his departure. Nearly three years elapsed before he returned to the child, who had grown to a beautiful child with long, golden, wavy hair. The mother's sister, who had married and had taken little Minnie and cared for her.

William Connally came to Denver May 22 and went to the Taney Hotel on Market street. There he remained until June 3, when he was seized with heart trouble and was removed by the city ambulance to the central Hospital. He died the same day with miners' consumption.

Some time before his death he had corresponded with his mother, who with his mother, had moved to St. Louis. A year ago the mother died. He wrote them of his marriage and ill luck and the loss of his wife.

Miss Minnie Connally is a buyer in a department store at St. Louis. Her sister, Annie, is a teacher in a school in the city. Both are drawing good salaries. They did not let their brother suffer in his last days, when wrote him cheery and encouraging letters. One of the letters, when his mother died, was to St. Louis. A year ago his marriage and ill luck and the loss of his wife.

Attorney J. W. Wooten of Colorado City was employed in the case, and it is his view on which the Denver police are now working. A statement of what had happened to him in Denver recently while on business. He went to a house on Stout street, a house which he had rented and some business with parties living there. While in the parlor waiting to see his parties, a little girl came in and asked her name. It was Minnie Connally, the sister who came to Denver and gave the body of their only brother burial.

Vain Quest for Child.

The funeral over, the sisters went to Central City to find the child, also the $10,000 insurance that their brother wrote he had left the daughter. No trace of the missing girl or policy could be found after a search of all the records.

Then they went to Black Hawk and other towns within a radius of 10 miles, as well as Leadville.

Attorney Recalls Important Incident.

Mr. Wooten thought nothing of the incident until he was called on by the Misses Connally and told of the case and the fruitless search. Then he recalled the child he met in Denver. They came to Denver on the next train and placed the information and case in the hands of Chief Armstrong. A detective was sent to the place on Stout street. A man named McNeilly was found to have known nothing of the case. The police decided to talk about the case last night, nor would the Misses Connally give them out any information, fearing its publication would frustrate their plans to find the child.

Information about the $10,000 insurance was given to the mother.

At the time the child was found, the mother, who had stopped to buy a newspaper, was discovered in the cave of Genghis Khan, a village in Otago province, Italy, two miles from the town of Pisa. The town of Pisa, which lies on the coast of the Tyrrhenian Sea, which is off the coast of Italy, the prince thinks, to justify the belief that the missing child has been discovered at last—two of them, in fact.

Monaco's Missing Link.

It is comforting to know that reverses suffered by the Prince of Monaco from the gambling career of Monte Carlo are devoted chiefly to his health. The prince was recently discovered in the cave of Genghis Khan, a village in Otago province, Italy, two miles from the town of Pisa. CONG. H. H. POWERS
FROM VERMONTSays: "I can recommend Peruna as an excellent family remedy and very good for coughs, colds and catarrhal affections."

The great popularity of Peruna as a catarrh remedy has tempted many people to imitate Peruna. A great many so-called catarrh remedies and catarrh tonics are to be found in many drug stores. These remedies can be procured by the druggist very much cheaper than Peruna. Peruna can only be obtained at a uniform price and no druggist can get it a cent cheaper.

Thus it is that druggists are tempted to substitute the cheap imitations of Peruna for Peruna. It is done every day without a doubt.

When a patient calls at a drug store to procure some Peruna and the druggist recommends something else that will be just as good, it may be that he does not always recognize the responsibility that he is taking upon himself. Such a substitute is always sure to result in failure.

The claim of Peruna to being the standard catarrh remedy of the world is based upon the following facts:

It has the endorsement of INNUMERABLE HOSPITALS.

special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 19.—L. A. D. Wilson of Minneapolis, now lying at the city hospital with an injured spine, which has paralyzed him from his waist to his toes, has joined the "Broken Back" Club.

This organization, which is probably the most unique body in the United States, has now 120 members, and its rolls is rapidly increasing. It was founded last December by James W. Patterson, a newspaper man, known from the Pacific coast to New York City.

Mr. Patterson has been lying in a water bed at the county hospital in Chisholm for months. He received his injury by a fall, and his body is now in a plaster case, his mind is clear and he has free use of his hands and arms.

Mr. Wilson's spine was too acute and healthy in tone to permit him to lie supinely in bed and remain his fate. He found that there were several other patients in the city who also suffered from a similar affliction. He found out their names and the numbers of their clubs, and then wrote to each and wrote each of them a letter. A correspondence was started which proved interesting to the members, and from it, and from them the idea of the club originated.

At first the membership was confined to hospitals in Chicago, but the club now has members in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Minneapolis. The doctors heartily endorse the plan as they see in it a means of alleviating the minds of their patients over the affliction, and the club gives them a more cheerful spirit and tends to prolong their lives.

Qualifications of Its Members.

The constitution and by-laws of the club were drawn up by Mr. Patterson and contain a number of unique features. Here are some of them:

"This club shall be known as the Broken Back Club of America. A member shall be allowed to become a member who is able to move a body below the eleventh rib.

"Race, sex, age, previous condition of health, social position, purity, virtue or morality shall be no bar to nor premium upon membership.

"The president of the club shall be the member whose paralysis extends to the highest rib."

SOUTHERN SPEAK EASY.

Cancer Probably Works on Double Rope

System.

Glasgow (Ky.) Times

A gentleman recently returned from a trip to the southern part of the country, says there is a "cancer" bill in operation down on the river that he has seen in a long time. The "tiger" is located in Barren County, Kentucky, and is said to be in Barren County, the modus operandi being as follows: A canoe is always at the bank on the Barren County side of the river, and the owner of the canoe, the purchaser places his hand and the price of the liquor on the seat, when the canoe comes along, and the man in the canoe goes down in a little shanty on the river bank, only to return in a few hours, when the man in the canoe does not see the seller, and nobody seems to know who he is. He is said to be doing a thriving business.

An Anti-Civil Service Story.

Some of the anti-civil service reformers have taken great delight in telling this story. It is from the "Cancer" bill in operation down on the river that he has seen in a long time. The "tiger" is located in Barren County, Kentucky, and is said to be in Barren County, the modus operandi being as follows: A canoe is always at the bank on the Barren County side of the river, and the owner of the canoe, the purchaser places his hand and the price of the liquor on the seat, when the canoe comes along, and the man in the canoe goes down in a little shanty on the river bank, only to return in a few hours, when the man in the canoe does not see the seller, and nobody seems to know who he is. He is said to be doing a thriving business.

The affairs of the club are a diversion to its members there seems to be no doubt. At present a patient in the Alexander Brothers' Hospital in Chicago and one in Bellau's Hospital, New York, are engaged in playing the game of chess by mail, and each for several hours each day. The idea of disease—they have little physical exercise, and they have little time in their minds, and they forget themselves in the game.

In different wards in the Cook County Hospital play double dummy whist every day by means of messages sent by telephone. The game is a great diversion to the members of the club.

The club is the chief delight of the members of the club. Firm friendships have been brought about by this correspondence and the exchange of news.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 18.—Accused of harboring murderers, smugglers and pirates on his lonely island at the entrance of Deception pass, white-haired Benjamin Ure, once Skagit County's richest man, is under arrest.

Ure's island is a bleak, spruce-grown bit of land, which abuts on the east entrance of Deception pass. Shelters from the west wind and the seas and protected from the swirling currents as they eddy and rush from the mouth of the pass, it is an ideal harbor.

Nothing grows on this island save the spruces. To one who passes it on the high seas, it looks like wilderness. To this the bold, wild and lawless have always been drawn.

Ure's property became worthless. He never troubled to pay it taxes, and he did not pay his taxes.

He had owned several schooners and a small boat, but about the upper sound about the upper sound when travel was slow and steam craft were few. Then he was forced to sell his boat.

He invested his money carefully. He became a man of means and influence. He bought real estate in Anacortes. The house he built there was high up in a place, burst. Ure's property became worthless.

He never troubled to pay his taxes, and he did not pay his taxes.

He left the place for his island holdings.

He built a cabin in a hollow, a cabin.

He cruised from time to time about the upper sound and made a living in some of the mysterious ways by which men get tribute from the waters. He still kept to the island.

Opium Smuggling

Smuggling became frequent. Opium was brought over the border from the Victoria factories in small craft. The smugglers were mostly Chinese.

William Osborne, a railway conductor, was captured and turned informer in New York City last winter. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it was found that he had been a smuggler in India.

After a while, it was discovered that he could be placed in a rolling chair, and his lower limbs were paralyzed, come when he moved about the room.

Broken Backs Do.

Eliza Vane was hurt in the Sixty-first Regiment Armory fire, which did so much damage and caused so much loss of life at the Park Avenue Hotel. Her spine was injured, too. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it was found that she went on the stage.

She had to give up her stage ambitions to be solved, which are of interest to many of the members, and give them opportunities for study and for individual replies. The study of the disease from the Pennsylvania Hospital at Philadelphia:

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis, ss:

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for the City of St. Louis, Mo., W. C. Steigers, Business Manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who deposes and says that the regular editions of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for the last three months (February, March and April, 1902), after deducting all copies returned by newsboys and copies left over, spoiled in printing and unaccounted for, averaged, Sunday, $2,066, Daily and Sunday, $14, $48. In the city of St. Louis sales averaged $6,585.

The coming cement houses would be more interesting if it were certain that their rents would be something less than present figures.

Will our brave soldier President resolve that it is better to be right than to be President again? May not the admiration of an intelligent minority be of more value than the disapproval of a stupid majority?

SPECIAL INTERESTS CONQUER.
President Roosevelt is said to have yielded to the advice to refrain from sending to the Senate a reciprocity treaty with Cuba, because the cause is believed to be hopeless at present.

It is interesting to note the grounds of opposition to the reciprocity treaty now pending in the Senate. There are 12 or 14 being held up by senators who represent special interests.

The French treaty, one of the most important, is opposed by the New England senators on behalf of the textile industries and the manufacturers of cheap jewelry in New England.

The Argentine treaty is held up ostensibly for the benefit of the sheep and cattle raisers, but really for the Beef Trust, which reaps the benefit of the road on hide.

In considering these treaties there is no question of the interest of the consumers, but only of the special interest which profits by the tariff. Expansion of trade for the benefit of all the people is sacrificed to the piling up of profits for the favored few.

President's campaign for trade expansion and justice for Cuba is broken against the senatorial bulwarks of organized greed.

There seems to be as much demand for oil lands as if there were not an oil gusher in Texas or any other part of the Union.

PROF CLEVELAND ON ANGLING.
The question, What shall we do with our ex-Presidents, is being answered in a convincing way by the Hon. Grover Cleveland.

Through the Post-Dispatch yesterday Mr. Cleveland told the people about the joys of fishing and the curative and health-preserving qualities of the sport. Incidentally he discussed the ethics of fishing and denounced the hog fisherman who is not satisfied with a reasonable catch.

Not long ago the only living ex-President discussed duck-hunting for the delectation and instruction of the people. In that article he drew the fine distinction between humane and inhuman duck-hunting. Human duck shooting is the killing of a moderate number of ducks and giving the fowls a chance for their lives. Inhuman duck-shooting is the slaying of all the ducks the hunter can hit.

Mr. Cleveland is doing valuable public service. He is not only teaching the people the art of angling and hunting and thus enticing them to the woods and streams and happiness, but he is instructing them in the ethics of sport.

Why not make our ex-Presidents Doctors of Good Cheer with the special function of teaching the public how to be happy though out of office? The occupation will tend to prolong and sweeten the lives of our ex-Presidents; for, it is more blessed to hunt ducks than to hunt offices and to fish for fish than to fish for votes.

Millions of acres of Canadian land are bought for settlement by American farmers. Will these agriculturists become British subjects, or will they convince the Canadians that annexation is the proper North American thing?

DANGER FROM STREET CAR FUSES.

We have been accustomed to laugh at passengers who are alarmed and try to jump off the car when a fuse burns out. Yet that such incidents are not without great danger is shown by the tragic results of the burning out of a fuse on a trolley car in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday. The car was going at full speed when the fuse burned out, setting fire to the front of the roof. In an instant the entire car was wrapped in flames, burning all who were unable to jump out. Five passengers were seriously injured, and one died.

The force used to propel an electric car is evidently no plaything. The burning out of a fuse is usually a trifling affair, and when the proper precautions in the way of metallic surroundings for the fuse are present, there is little or no danger. The accident at Brooklyn should warn street car constructors to take such precautions. Woodwork or inflammable insulating matter in proximity to a fuse may cause fatalities.

IN THE OUDR OF GARLIC.
If your best girl smells slightly of garlic, don't get alarmed. She has probably been partaking of Senator Marcus Hanna's new celebrated dish of corned beef, in which the vegetable beloved of Spanish cooks and Italian laborers is a necessary ingredient. The complete recipe of the Hanna corned beef was printed in Monday's Post-Dispatch. This hash has been approved by the President, and all the Washington diplomats and society people are eating it.

It is evident that this plant garlic has been grossly maligned. It belongs to the hyacinth tribe, of the lily family, is a perennial indigenous to Southern Europe, has a deciduous spath, a bulbiferous, clover-like umbel, which flowers, with exert pistil and stamens. Its separated bulbs are called cloves, though they don't smell the same as the spice.

Garlic, we are informed, was a part of the diet of the Israelites in Egypt. It was highly esteemed by the Greek and Roman soldiers, who derived a part of their expansive strength from it.

The nonresistants placed it on piles of stones at cross-roads, as an offering to Hecate, a goddess supposed to guide travelers in the dark, perhaps because it would not be difficult to notice one whose breath smelled of garlic, even on the darkest night.

Let it be understood that the Hanna brand of beef hash is not complete without this ancient, heroic herb. If you eat Hanna hash, you must be content to smell of garlic. But why not? If garlic is the fashion, it will smell sweeter than roses. For the time, all perfumes must pale before it.

The news of King Edward's illness, necessitating the postponement of the coronation, which was given to the St. Louis public exclusively in this morning's Post-Dispatch extra, will be received with profound regret by the civilized world. It is gratifying to note that the operation on the King was successful and that the first bulletins were hopeful in tone. The American people extend their heartfelt sympathy to the King and the English people in this unfortunate blow in the midst of their season of festivity and rejoicing, and their earnest wishes for the prompt recovery of the sovereign. In addition to the misfortune of the King's attack at this time the postponement of the coronation is a sore disappointment to the King and his people. It means a tremendous loss of costly and laborious preparations.

MITCHELL'S FAIR OFFER.

President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers makes several strong points in his address to the public, stating the miners' case.

He shows that the average earnings of the miners are less than $300 a year, while the cost of the necessities of life has greatly advanced.

He refutes the statement that the productive efficiency of the miners is less than it was before the advance of 10 per cent in their wages. On the contrary, the government reports prove the production per miner is greater than it ever was.

He points out that while the operators refused to raise the wages of the miners on the ground that it would increase the price of coal 10 per cent and thus work a hardship on the public, the price of coal has been advanced $1 per ton, with no increase of wages. He shows that the coal companies have made enormous profits.

But the best point of all urged by Mr. Mitchell is the proposition to refer all questions in dispute to arbitration. He says, the miners are willing to abide by the decision of a fair board of arbitration and if it is against them to take up their work under the conditions prescribed by the board.

The public is not able to judge the merits of the issue between the operators and miners. It cannot go into the details of the business and reach a just decision on the published statements. But arbitrators can adjust all differences upon a fair basis, and the public, whose interest is great, must conclude that the refusal of the operators to submit their case to arbitration is practically a confession of weakness. No just cause can suffer from arbitration.

Director of Works Taylor has taken the right step in deciding to not tree down around the sites of the Capidol and the other reproductions of historic buildings. The plan of constructing temporary railway tracks on trestles so as to save the trees should be adopted in all cases where trees are still uncut. Every tree saved is a gain to the Exposition and the people's park.

A LIFE-SAVING ACCOMPLISHMENT.

If the four boys who were drowned in the Meramec River in hundreds of pleasure seekers had been taught to swim, the sad tragedy might have been averted. If there had been strong swimmers, with courage and presence of mind, among the spectators the lives of the boys might have been saved.

Swimming is not only a healthful exercise and a delightful sport, but it is a most useful accomplishment. It saves lives. The person who cannot swim is always in danger when on water. Teach the boys and girls to swim. The opportunity offered boys and girls to learn to swim is one of the principal benefits of free public baths. They may be the means of saving many lives.

Secretary Hitchcock says that the irrigation law just enacted is admirably constructed and surrounded with safeguards against corruption and land monopoly. Congress has done so well in this matter of irrigation that it might be expected to proceed at once to do well by admitting Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to the Union.

It is said that a combination of all the beef-packing interests

What do the vegetarians think of that?

The census rises to remark that $2,255,155 are invested in making needles and pins. And no one has ever found out what becomes of the product.

Every city wants President Roosevelt. If these cities are a measure of his popularity the nurses of the Hanna boom will have to stay awake.

Through the World's Fair the United States can make a greater impression upon the world than they did by the victories of the Spanish war.

The great parties are so divided that the trusts may be involved in uncertainty as to how much to contribute to the campaign funds.

What those Central and South American countries need is more of golf and baseball and fewer insurrections and revolutions.

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

One might suppose that the ugliness of the Panama hat would make it exclusive without any stiff price.

A Kentucky pair just been married in a grocery store; but marrying in a grocery store will not make the grocer sell on trust.

As an airship is to make a dash from Spitsbergen to the North Pole next May, there may be a North Pole exhibit in St. Louis in 1904.

The big crops of Illinois bottom potatoes and bottom melons may not bring on bottom prices, but they may help consumers a good deal.

The tallies-black apes that have handsomer features than some human beings will doubtless some day be fitted for self-government.

The rising popularity of Uncle Mark Hanna's corned beef hash is more important than ever that the Beef Trust shall be.

The Case avenue trolley car that leaves the track to take down fences is much more tolerable than the car that stays on and makes a specialty of children and old people.

The spectacle of our hard rider President followed closely by the crimson and gold cavalier advertising a popular brand of cigars may not be quite so gorgeous as a coronation parade, but it is striking.

The St. Louis who plunged into the chilling waters of the Ohio to rescue his Panama hat, and brought it to the shore before his teeth after a desperate struggle, is a hero, even though the price may have been the stimulant for so much daring.

COMING JOYS.

When Santos-Dumont, in his ivory smart, comes sailing along in his aeroart, we'll welcome this skipper, who sails with such dash.

Over the billowy waves of invisible seas, And beg him to take us a-sailing with him Far away from the town, whers the smoke is so grim.

II.

When Santos comes sailing, as free as a bird,

In his aeroart, how our souls will be stirred.

As we think of the pleasure, now almost in sight,

Of ascending to starward, and roosting all night

In the limitless space, while we lazily spoon.

With our ship anchored safe to a tree on the moon!

W. J. JIMSEY IS THE CHAIRMAN
KERENS SEEMS TO HOLD THE WHIP HAND.

Nagel Has Withdrawn From the Senatorial Race—Bartholdi and Joy Make Speeches in the Interest of Peace.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 24.—After an all-night vigil which was occupied with numerous caucuses the Kerens faction and the opposition assembled their forces at 10 o'clock today for the final struggle to determine which shall rule the Republican organization of Missouri. The delegates looked tired and worn, but their enthusiasm apparently was not dampened. It was nearly noon when the convention was called to order. The hall of the House of Representatives was quite sufficient to accommodate the full quota of delegates who were packed into it, but the Kerens and Akins people are claiming the credential committee, which ever controls will dictate the policies of the convention.

At 11 o'clock Charles Nagel of St. Louis announced to the Post-Dispatch that he had withdrawn from the senatorial race.

"That, at least," he said, "is my understanding. I took the action at the solicitation of those who put my name forward. I have no regrets to express, no explanation to make. I said when I consented to go before the convention for an indorsement that at any time it was deemed advisable for the best interest of the party I would finally withdraw."

"There has been no compromise that I know of."

The appearance in the hall of National Committeeman Kerens, Chairman Akins, Congressmen Joy and Bartholdi, and the occupied seats upon the platform together with former Mayor Cyrus P. Walbridge of St. Louis and Nathan Frank and the members of the state committee.

Prayers Made for Harmony.

The opening invocation was delivered by Rev. J. J. Martin. He prayed that harmony might govern the assembly and that personal and selfish differences be laid aside.

Mr. Akins made a brief address. He congratulated the Republicans of Missouri on their efforts to redeem the state from Democratic ring rule and predicted a victory for the party was near in sight. He referred to Roosevelt as "Our young President" and paid a glowing tribute to the late President McKinley. A delegation of the Akins group had been set up in Jefferson City. Becoming face to face, the state chairman remarked that when the legislative session was recessed he next day he would be ready to pass the resolutions passed endorsing Alfonso. The bright prospects now confront Missouri Republicans. Every group which participated in the state's national platform has been kept, Mr. Akins declared.

At the close of the speech Akins sprung the Roosevelt 1904 presidential boom, which brought down the convention, the cheering continuing for half an hour.

He said the Republicans of the nation should have the second administration of Theodore Roosevelt. "We have," said Akins, "to quarrel about who shall wear the party's hopes.

TRIBUNE.

The Republican party has a higher mission than that of seeking to control federal offices."

Niebel and police laws governing St. Louis came in for a round of severe condemnation. He declared the lobby and the state house ring must be repudiated by the people of the state.

The state chairman's attack on the lobby was particularly vigorous. His called the Kereens' political combination.

The young men of the party were the element, he said, in whom the party's hopes was built.

KERENS WAS WELL RECEIVED.

When Akins finished there were loud calls for Kerens, mingled with a few hisses. As the national committeeman arose he was greeted with an outburst of cheering. His speech was well received. He called the Dickey administration and predicted a decisive Republican victory in the fall.

"Why is it?" he asked, "that for 30 years the party in this state has suffered so many disasters? Is it the misfortune due in a measure to ourselves? We have jeopardized our chance by needless bickering?"

"We need the support of all Republicans, and I for one will do all in my power to bring about a great triumph," he said. "The party will be harmony to the grand old party of this state if we must fight to get it. I care not for the post-graduate who sits in the Senate or the House. This last remark was interpreted as a rap at Bartholdi.

It seemed to be fair and square with all," concluded Kerens. "To no man will I yield my loyalty to his party. I claim this right, this prerogative, and I deny it to no Republican. The speech was frequently punctuated with applause.

JOY AND BARTHOLDI MAKE SPEECHES.

Congressman Charles F. Joy was the first speaker. He opened by saying that "As I told the little Rough Rider in the White House the other day my district will again send a Republican representative to the Fifty-eighth Congress." His address was brief. If the Republicans were not victorious in the coming election he said he would be greatly disappointed. He hoped that harmony would prevail, but said "to have you all draft your plan to see if we could not win the Roosevelt Cuban reciprocity policy." He concluded by declaring that he had no desire to see another who would endorse the President for another term.

Mr. Joy was followed by Congressman Bartholdi. Bartholdi said he agreed with the national committeeman. He hoped the Missouri Committee would be harmonious to the grand old party. It was necessary to fight to get it.

Bartholdi's speech stirred up much enthusiasm, and sat amid repeated calls for him.

After a few remarks from C. P. Walbridge of St. Louis, Mr. Akins introduced R. E. McJessey of Maryland, the temporary chairman.

McJessey's speech was an oratorical gem. In splendid metaphors he arraigned the Missouri Democratic leaders. He called them "the Bitter delegation" as a perfect office holder and then saluted Sam Cook.

"Even Champ Clark," he said, "is among the men, even Champ himself, a strong among them, but not a statesman among them. He referred to former Gov. Stone as a statesman, but not a statesman among them. The speech was never to be heard in the halls of the United States Senate."

Coming down to convention politics, Mr. Jimsey said the Republicans had assembled to promote party rather than personal interests, and conduct the campaign on state lines. He said the party had the right to the president as the "incomparable Roosevelt."

A motion by Morris of Grundy County to call all committees to the convention came without debate and was carried.

At 12:30 the convention took a recess until 2 o'clock.

OUTLINE OF PLATFORM.

Declaration Against Trusts and Roosevelt Named for 1904.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 24.—The Republican platform to be adopted at the state convention today will declare against trusts and all combinations in restraint of trade and ask for the enactment of such amendments to the constitution of the United States as will suppress such combinations.

The present legislation will be arranged to give the rich public service corporations of the state; attention will be called to Democratic financial methods, and the administration for its alleged failure to deem the state's bonded indebtedness. The charge will be made that of Missouri's bonds not yet paid have been paid twice.

A fourth plank will declare that the state administration has disbursed public funds in a manner to the great injury of the state.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Tobacco Trust has begun a war on the retail dealers which promises to drive them out of business just as the Ice Trust two years ago forced many cases, the former owners are now acting as managers on salary for the trust.

The title of the corporation which aspires to own every cigar store in the city of New York is "The American Cigar Trust." Its officers do not regard the principles of self-government, and especially because of the taxpayers of the city election and police laws devised to enable the governor to control municipal elections.

KICKING HORSE CAUSED BIG FIRE

FLAMES DID $25,000 DAMAGE AT MADISON, ILL.

OVERTURNED THE LANTERN

Star Brewery of Belleville, Coudy Bros. and Justice Pearce the Chief Losers.

Mrs. O'Leary's cow that kicked over the lamp that started the fire, that burst nearly every house that Jack built and other folks built in Chicago, in 1871, had an imitator in Madison, Ill., Monday night.

A horse in the stable of the Star brewery beer depot kicked over a lantern and started a fire which caused a damage of about $25,000.

The fire was discovered by J. M. Harlan at 10:30 o'clock. It spread rapidly.

The fire departments of Madison, West Madison, Granite City and Venice were soon on hand, and by valiant work they saved most of the block.

The beer depot, the property of the Star brewery of Belleville, was totally destroyed, the loss being about $10,000.

The stable, a two-story frame structure, was burned, including three valuable horses, among them the one that kicked over the lamp.

Coudy Bros.' hardware store and lumber yard were partially destroyed. The Madison Inn, owned by Justice of the Peace A. F. Pearce, was also damaged, and was wrecked by the flames, the damage being $200.

Thousands of persons gathered at the scene and watched the flames eat the names.

Mayor Coyle commanded the Madison firemen. Mayor Rosenbaum was in charge of the Granite City department, and William Bahr directed the efforts of the Venetians.
